CAPTION TO MAPS

Map #1: Situation of the new building of the Institute of Physical Chemistry and Electrochemistry in Prague: "1" Institute Building. "2" Airport; "3" Subway station "Leninova" (line A); "4" Subway station "Museum" (line C and A); "5" Subway station "Fucikova" (line C) "6" Subway station "Hlavni nadrazi" (line C). close to the railway station.

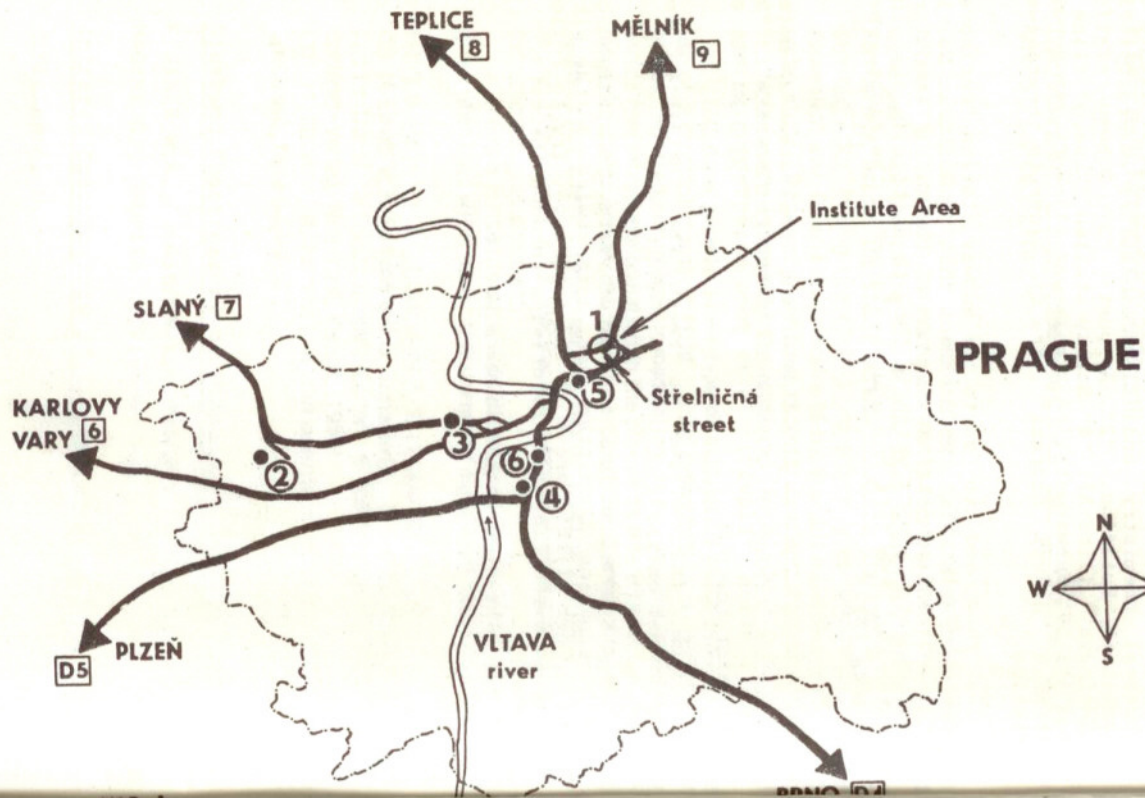

We recommend to go to the subway station "Fucikova" (see the point 5 on the map) and then to use tram No. 17 or 25 direction "Strizkov" - out of the city. Get out of the tram at "Lađvi", which is the 7th station (a shopping center at the left but you should go to the right - see the map #2).

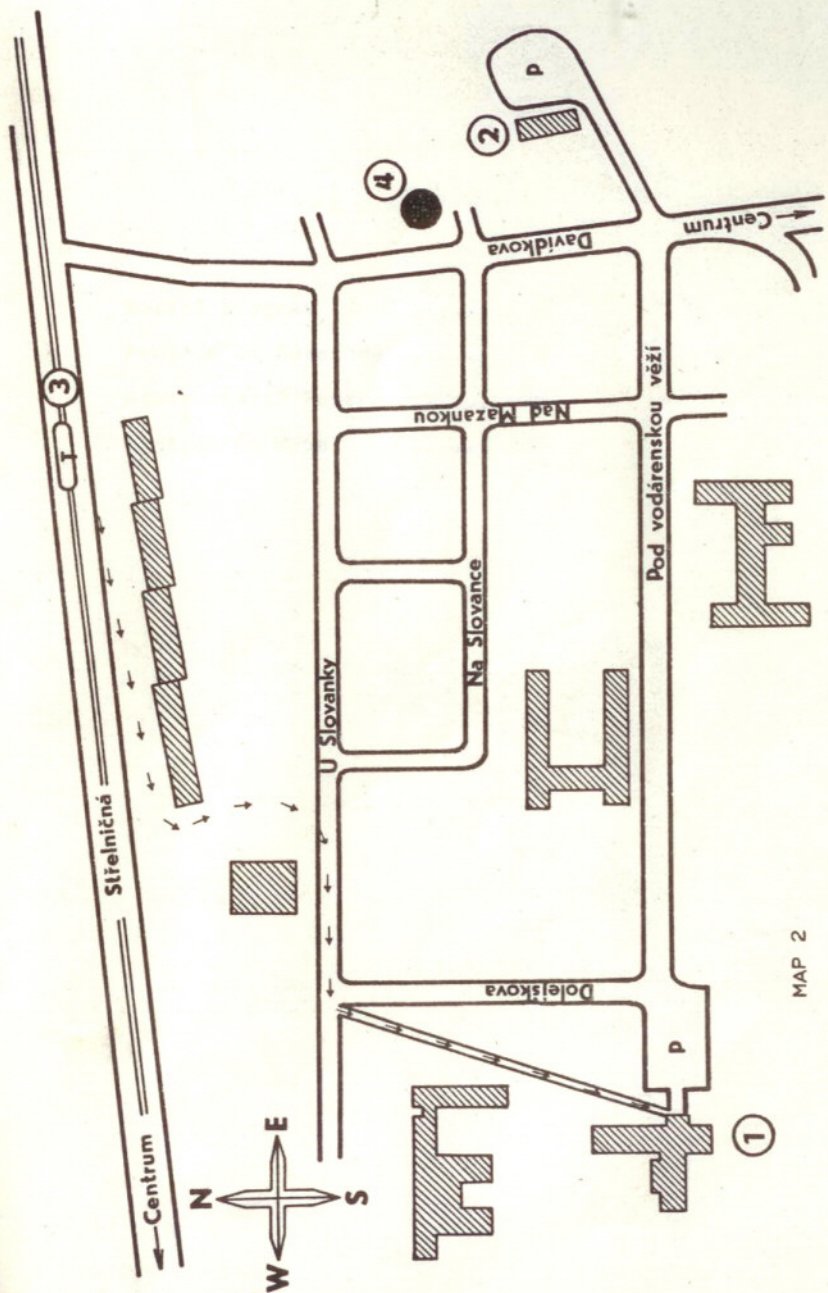

Map #2: "1" The new building of the Institute; "2" Hotel of the Czechoslovak Academy of Sciences ("Mazanka"); "3" Tram station "Ladvi"; "4" a good orientation point: an old water tower.

Follow the arrows to reach the Institute (for pedestrians only).

"P": parking. Good luck for car drivers: the chairman of the Organizing Committee got lost twice in the city during his first drive to the Institute. Try to follow the road signs "Teplice" by driving through the city.

Map #3: Situation of the Liblice Castle.
